Description: Peter Simensky's work investigates the nature of value and its accretion. His limited edition, hand-made plywood milk-crate confronts these two issues in tandem by offering an adaptable utility. Intended to function as a blank canvas for the creative act of collecting, the ironic nature of the ubiquitous crate available to the masses coupled with the elite act of art collecting sums up Simensky's interests in a tidy, little box. Collector can be flipped over as an end table or, with two or four, put together as a coffee table, stacked as shelving, or used for storage.

Each crate is signed and numbered by the artist; fabrication time is about 2-4 weeks.
